

FROM THE DESK OF COUNCILMAN TREVIÑO

Dear Neighbor,

History is our greatest teacher, and our identity will be shaped by aspects of the past that we choose to honor. I believe the complete story of the Alamo has not been told as generations before us have been given little or no knowledge of the complex layers of history buried beneath. Those layers will be brought to life with the reclamation of most of the original mission footprint.

The process which has brought us here was far-reaching, inclusive, and –in my experience– nothing short of meticulous. Hundreds of public meetings were held throughout the State, thousands of comments were considered, and countless hours were spent in order to get this plan right. We achieved consensus through strong leadership, meaningful dialogue, and a collaborative approach. Several important changes were made including the increasing the number of access points and trees; the removal of the glass walls; and the relocation of the Cenotaph 500 feet closer to its original intended location. Over many years, the process as outlined in the tri-party Cooperative Agreement still holds up.

Going forward, the Alamo Citizens Advisory Committee and the Alamo Management Committee will continue to meet in an official capacity to oversee the implementation of the master plan and ensure it meets the vision and guiding principles unanimously approved by all involved committees.

Thank you to the Alamo Executive Committee, the Alamo Citizens Advisory Committee - especially my fellow tri-chairs, and the Alamo Management Committee for working thoughtfully and methodically to bring the Alamo Master Plan to fruition.

I am profoundly grateful for the involvement of each and every resident in San Antonio and across Texas. The Alamo Master Plan put forth encapsulates the visions and efforts of thousands of Texans and honors the profound history which permeates from this site. My deep involvement with this project has led me to the belief that the Alamo's history, not only defines us, it unites us.

Sincerely,

Councilman Treviño Applauds Expansion of Downtown UTSA Campus

The San Antonio City Council unanimously approved the sale of two City-owned lots located at 506 Dolorosa and 702 Dolorosa which will support the School of Data Science, National Security Collaboration Center, as well as the construction of faculty and student housing.

The expansion of the UTSA campus will not only improve the quality of education in District 1 - it will also improve the quality of life in San Antonio for generations to come.

Furthermore, it will connect the campus and many nearby District 1 neighborhoods, such as Prospect Hill, Five Points, and Tobin Hill, to our urban core where the efforts of our students and professionals can be leveraged with new and emerging partnerships with the private sector.

The focus of UTSA on the area surrounding the downtown campus will jumpstart affordable and market-rate housing on the west side, and elevate our families and our city going forward.

City of San Antonio Spanish Translations web page now available

As part of the City's efforts to build a more equitable and engaged community, the City of San Antonio launched San Antonio.gov "en español" with key information relevant to the City's Spanish-speaking community. The page, www.sanantonio.gov/español, includes City services that Spanish-speaking residents search for the most according to web visitor data.

Councilman Treviño worked to include Spanish translation services across the City's platforms. Previously, the only Spanish translation on the City's website involved a Google plugin.

The City's Spanish engagement efforts extend to the government access channel, TVSA. New this fiscal year, San Antonio residents can watch City Council meetings live in Spanish from their TV sets by enabling Second Audio Programming (SAP) from their remote controls. This function is also available on the live webstream at sanantonio.gov/tvsa.
